

Creating Customer Messages in ALLDATA Manage[®] Online

With some examples to help you get started!

It's quick and easy to send text or email messages to your customers, by whichever method they prefer. You can text or email the individual customer directly from the Manage Online work document, or you can create a single text or email message and send it to many customers, automatically personalizing each message with information from your customer database. You'll want to email longer messages, as text messages are limited to 160 characters.
